The building done and the public improvements made in the city during the past year would approximate close to half a million dollars. This is a showing that would be a credit to any city with four times the population of Alpena, and is convincing proof that Alpena is the most prosperous and progressive city in the state. In this estimate we do not include the actual cost of the Alkali company's plant, nor that of the El-Cajon Cement Co., which will be in the neighborhood of $600,000 or $700,000 when the two industries are in operation, but just a conservative estimate of the cost of the buildings which they will occupy. Were we to include the actual cost of the above industries, it would bring the total improvements up to between $1,000,000 and $1,250,000. Apart from these two items, the principal buildings that have been erected in the past year, were St. Anne's new church and school house, two handsome edifices; Eales & Trask's mill, the additions to the Fletcher Paper Co.'s mill, and Rogers Bros'. seed elevator; C. R. Henry's new residence, the beautiful homes of A. W. Ziem, W. H. LeRoy, Geo. R. Nicholson, Thomas Kennedy, Dr. W. E. Carr, R. H. Collins, the Hanover block, St. Bernard's parsonage, St. Paul's parsonage, and many others.

In addition to several miles of cement sidewalks laid in the city, and a vast amount of paving, the principal public improvement was the Dunbar-Saginaw street sewer, which was completed at a cost of over $22,000. Preparations are being made for another great boom in building the coming summer, although it may be many years before our hustling city experiences the phenomenal growth with which it was favored in 1903.
